Election/Restrictions

This application contains claims directed to the following patentably distinct species of the claimed invention:

Species A: Electrofusion joint forming apparatus and method with heating element secured via a fastener (claims 1-13 and 17-58)

Species B: Electrofusion joint forming apparatus and method with heating element secured without a fastener (claims 14-16 and 59-72)

Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. Currently, none are generic.

Applicant is advised that a reply to this requirement must include an identification of the species that is elected consonant with this requirement, and a listing of all claims readable thereon, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification and divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Applicant is advised that the response to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

Furthermore, for either Species A or Species B above, Applicant must further elect a single disclosed subspecies of Species A or B as outlined below:

Subspecies 1: Electrofusion apparatus and method where two pipes are fused together without a fitting and heating element is embedded in pipe end

Subspecies 2: Electrofusion apparatus and method where two pipes are fused together with a fitting and heating element is embedded in a fitting between the pipes.

Moreover, if Species B is elected above, Applicant is further subject to the additional restriction requirement as outlined below:

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 USC 121:

Art Unit: 3742

I. Claims 14-16, drawn to an electrofusion weld joint forming heating element, classified in Class 219, subclass 552.

II. Claims 59-72, drawn to an apparatus and method of forming an electrofusion pipe joint by embedding electric heating element in pipe ends without fastener, classified in Class 156, subclass 304.2.

Inventions I and II are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because the heating element as claimed in the combination could be a variety of different structures, not necessarily a zigzag heater as claimed in the broadest subcombination claim. The subcombination has separate utility such as a variety of electric heating applications, not necessarily electrofusing pipe joints, such as welding two optical fibers together, curing a coating on a workpiece, drying paint, etc.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification and divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Applicant is advised that the response to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).
